

Throughout the garden are spots filled with bright plumerias popping out of the of green background. Also decorating the yard are beautiful hibiscus and foxtails. Where there were once many tonga tonga trees, now stands a mango and a papaya tree.

A number of herbs scent the garden, including basil, oregano, rosemary and thyme. Also good enough to eat are hot peppers and juicy tomatoes from the tomato plants.

With its winding paths twisting and turning into more hidden treasures, it's easy to lose yourself along with all of your worries in this magical Mangilao garden. HAL
